I have been working in the field of architecture since January of 1999. My focus on sustainable design started in May of 2003. Since that time our firm has been named the "best small architectural firm" by the United States Green Building Council in 2014 and the "best green designer" in 2008 by the Virginia Sustainable Building Network. I have personally designed energy star homes, EarthCraft Homes, LEED certified homes and industrial building, and an EarthCraft Commercial building. My design work ranges from residential to commercial, office, and industrial. I am also able to provide energy-audits for the Harrisonburg Electrical commission.
