Why do you wish to serve on a board or commission?

For many years, I have been very involved in church, my work, and at my children's schools. Now that my children are grown, I have more time to extend my formal involvements to the community. Furthermore, in the past year or so, I have attended several City Council meetings. Observing those meetings has convinced me that involvement in activities of the municipal government offer an opportunity to make a positive difference in the world by positively impacting the local community. Harrisonburg has been a wonderful community for my husband and I, and for our daughters as they were growing up.

What relevant experience or education do you have to this board or commission?

Environmental stewardship has been a personal passion of mine for three decades. However, I now recognize the importance of extending my efforts to reduce negative impacts on the environment beyond my own lifestyle choices; it is essential to examine ways that we can take such steps as a community, working together. Service on the Environmental Performance Standards Advisory Committee would offer me a chance to apply what I've learned through my personal commitment to environmental sustainability in a broader way.

In addition, my service on this committee would provide a natural connection between the city of Harrisonburg and Eastern Mennonite University, where I serve as Vice President & Undergraduate Academic Dean. EMU has recently launched a Center for Sustainable Climate Solutions, and I am EMU's administrative representative to the center's oversight board.

What other interests or concerns do you have regarding the community?

In general, taking steps to mitigate negative effects of climate change is an urgent matter that all communities must address. Furthermore, this need overlaps with others; for example, negative effects of climate change tend to most adversely impact those who are most vulnerable. In the Harrisonburg community specifically, I have some concern about whether single stream recycling is working as intended.

Please list any past or present community involvement e.g. City Council, Board and Commissions, Citizen Academy, etc. in Harrisonburg or elsewhere:

For several years, I was the minutes-taker for the Friendly City Food Coop board.

I have always been an active member of a local church. My formal and informal roles within each congregation have included some community activities. Currently, I am a member of Park View Mennonite Church, where I have taught Sunday School, served as worship leader, organized fellowship activities, and provided music. Previously, my family and I attended Immanuel Mennonite Church, where I served as congregational chair, chair of the fellowship/nurture commission, and started the children's worship experience.

I have also been involved in the Parent-Teacher Council for my children's schools.
